The U.P.O. gave a dance in the I.O.O.F. Hall Tuesday night. A large crowd was present. Card playing took up the first part of the evening. Mr. Clyde Bell won ladies first prize, and Albert Goodyear won the Gents first prize. Mrs. Homer King and Mr. Dorcas won the booby prizes. Lunch was then served after which followed the dancing.

Mr. Wifford Henderson favoured us with a solo which was enjoyed by all present.

The Vets gave a sheet and pillow case dance last Friday night in their hall. It was nicely decorated, and a large crowd attended. Hurst's Orchestra supplied the music which we knew was the very best. Lunch was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Mr. Grund and Frank returned from a motor trip to the States last Tuesday.

Last Brigade from Swan River to York Factory

By O-GE-MAS-EH (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

By M. A. M.

A Foreword: It is a hard matter for an old Fox Trader to take a pen and try to show the modern reader what the old days were like. But when one day I sat down to chronicling and related lady, and when she becomes persistent, why then nothing remains but to comply with her request.

In the spring of 1874 being at that time an apprenticeship clerk in the honorable Hudson's Bay Co.'s service, and rejoicing in a salary of £30 a year, with the usual clerk's allowances (rent of 20/- per floor, flour, tea, sugar, 2/- per tea, 1/- per oil, rice, flour, sugar, chocolate with two gallons of wine and two of spirits). I received orders from the Chief Factor, at Fort Ellis, to take charge of Shool River House, which I had been told about in stories from the mountaineers of the Swan River, on the north side of Shool Lake. Reaching there will two dog trains, in the latter part of March and after complying with all formalities incident to taking up a post, I started down my first hunting stage, with feelings of great pride and no small sense of responsibility.

Shool River House was charmingly situated on a sandy bar immediately fronting the lake, while to the west and south were the rocky peaks of the Porcupine Mountains, densely covered with spruce. The Fort itself was enclosed with a stout wall of hewn timber. Heavy gates opened directly in the middle of the Master's house, and on each side of the entrance were the usual store houses, and men's quarters.

Trading posts kept me busily employed until the opening of the lakes, and after a week or two I had ready a small canoe as much boat as possible to make the trip to York Factory, my post to be the starting point of the Brigade. Finally, having secured every able-bodied man within the fort, we began to make arrangements to accommodate a little more than a dozen of a little town; long rows of Indian Tepees were erected along the ridge east of the Fort, dancing, gambling and love-making, were to the west and south. Thus the wives and whores of the world would return after their trip to the sea. My time was fully occupied, every man who signed a contract for a voyage, was entitled to a half month's wages, and added to this being no cash in circulation, this was paid out of the store goods. Finally the head guide, old Lion-like McNab, came in from Fort Belly with many supplies and took absolute command, assuming absolute charge of the Brigade.

Woe betide the unlucky white who disputed his authority. Down went with the first think that came to hand. Now followed several days hard work, setting up every kind of wood house in full complement of provision, coverings, etc. Then carefully asserting the crews, for he knew not unfinitiated that every York boat is manned by eight men and a steersman. The heads oars and oars are made for the steersman, the whole crew rise and fall when rowing. The steersman standing on a platform in the stern sheets, controls every motion of the boat with a large sweep; this being replaced by a rudder when sailing, a single mast and large square sail being used when the wind is favorable.

A Guide McNab fixes the time of starting, and the number of consecutive stages. The shop which stood open from early morning till late at night, armed with men, women, children and dogs, for with every man engaged came a whole company, on all occasions a sample of his courage. At first the men for departure came. A few steady old hands had pulled the logs up to the beach and lindens consisted of firs, goose pine and castorum for shipbuilding. To Brier, prairie, spruce, and cedar logs were put on carts to be taken to the wagons for the trip. But, alas, over twenty men were missing. That McNab, arming himself with a stout flitter, requested me to join in the hunt, and one by one we descended to the river bank, often sheltered by dark dunes skiers, others in the woods. Out they were pulled, some carried to the boats and all were pitched in with small ceremony. At last everything was ready, and though we lay beyond the farthest fixer for starting out, the police, with their whips, the men and shelly flocks of savages from Indian women and children, the eight boats passed off round the point.

My orders were to accompany the Brigade, second in command, so leaving a boat man in charge of the rear, charge the fort, taking another and light bark canoe to assure my return, I stepped into the stem sheets of the guided boat. Nine men were in the boat, Shool River being our last port of call. It was beautiful calm, the different boats sailing with one another for leadership. Canoe was ordered at Graves Point, a watch set to prevent desertions, eight men were sent ashore, and a small party for each man and a woman to care for men and wife. Each man was given his rations by the bowman of the boat, whose duty it was to issue rations of pemmican and flour. In half an hour from the time of starting, the boats were rapidly headed, "Braver Than Bred." Would you like to know how it went? Well, a stiff drizzle was rapidly mixed generally on the water, and the boat was lost in a rapid, the boat being found again, the rations piece of a rusty pocket slipped and falling, crushed his chest, a rude cross now marks the spot.

Leaving two empty boats with me, the remainder of the Brigade pulled along the coast carrying the precious stores for the winter. We had a rough, though a very broad and rapid, being rapidly headed, "Braver Than Bred." Would you like to know how it went? Well, a stiff drizzle was rapidly mixed generally on the water, and the boat was lost in a rapid, the boat being found again, the rations piece of a rusty pocket slipped and falling, crushed his chest, a rude cross now marks the spot.

This was the last time goods were brought to the Swan River district via Hudson's Bay and over many years to come final destination of history repeats itself. Therefore to our forefathers was the chief means of access to the plains and forests of the North-West, has fallen into abeyance with the advent of the transcontinental railroads, now however is resuming its course, and in the near future will again become a mighty factor in the transportation problems of Western Canada.

The Liberal Leader

LEON W. W. MACKENZIE KING.

Lader of the Opposition in the Dominion House, who has been making a tour of the Western Provinces, as a credit to his party, has been assisting the efforts of the Government in aiding the development of the United States, the second in building up South America and the Orient, and of the third in building up Russia.

The United States," Mr. Arnold said, "have made great contribution in the constructive effort of the world. The place we occupy, as a great creditor nation, is merely that others have gone down in value."

Any individual who builds on the misfortunes of others is building on a foundation of sand."

An Unenviable Position

American Debtors Status of United States—As a Colder Nation—Montreal—John Jacob Arnold, vice-president of the Bankers' Union for Commerce, and general manager of the H. V. Green Company, Boston, addressing a meeting here on world financial conditions, said the position of the United States, as a creditor nation was unenviable.

"It had been built up as a direct result of the war, while the position of Great Britain, Germany, and France as creditors has not been acquired by the efforts of the people in aiding the development of the United States, the second in building up South America and the Orient, and of the third in building up Russia."

J. W. Marlatt & Co.

My Dear Sirs—had been suffering for years, and last winter doctors from the hospital had given up all hope of recovery. I had heard of LATIS'S SPECIFIC" for Gall Stones and Appendicitis, and after I had taken it for a month I am now in full health, feeling like at the age of twenty-five years. I thank J. W. Marlatt & Co. & the manufacturer for this medicine which I obtained through their medium.

Should Encourage Agriculture

Hon. MacKenzie King Believes in Necessity of Aiding Basic Industry.

Prince Albert—Speaking before a large audience here, Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King dwelt at some length upon the necessities of encouragement to agriculture as the greatest factor in the welfare of the Dominion. "At the present time," he said, "only one-tenth of the arable land of our country is under cultivation." The duty of the Government, he said, is to encourage other enterprisers to cultivate the land. Canada's lands yield food for the population within and the people without, and to help lift the load from the shoulders of working men, their wives and children by lowering living costs. "We need more acreage, more crops, more orchards, more hedges, more swine, more sides and fewer skyscrapers."

"There is a man in this country who produced the best wheat that the world has ever seen. Was it given any recognition? No, not even a word of thanks. Men who have had large business enterprises have been honored and singled out but this man who is also a benefactor mankind has been passed by unnoticed. Men of the soil are the real glamour of Canada. They should be honored and helped to still greater achievements."

Mr. King also said that in the interest of agriculture in greater production and for the encouragement of the soil, the Liberal Party were of the opinion of the Government should arrange for the distribution of fertilizers at the lowest possible cost. He maintained that the cost of fertilizers to Mr. Carnegie was the cost of holding back and that an ultimate solution lay in greater production.

Agreement Made to End British Miners' Strike

The Crop Movement

Government Is Co-operating With Railways to Prevent Congestion.

On the western main line of grain is on the way to market as satisfactorily, there being few signs of serious congestion, some complaints are being received daily by the Government as to shortage of cars. In the majority of cases they are from the owners of grain, who expect to receive payment according to surplus profits or otherwise from coal exports. All complaints when received are at once referred to the Department of Railways which is co-operating with all the railways in an effort to have the crop moved with a little inconvenience to the Western farmers as possible.

Sylvia Pankhurst Writes to Lenin.

London—A letter from Sylvia Pankhurst to Nikolai Lenin, now in the hands of the police, states that the British government has been destroyed since "the government is letting the Irish hunger strike die." Sylvia is at liberty under bail for sedition.

London—The prospect now is that the coal strike will terminate by the end of this week through the miners' acceptance of the agreement arranged with the government under which the miners will get two shillings additional to their normal wage at the end of the year and in the future their wages will be settled by the creation of a national wages board.

In the event of any delay in starting the wages board, wages will in the event be settled on the basis of current rates or otherwise according to surplus profits or otherwise from coal exports. All complaints when received are at once referred to the Department of Railways which is co-operating with all the railways in an effort to have the crop moved with a little inconvenience to the Western farmers as possible.

The agreement is skillfully arranged so that all concerned, including the miners, will benefit in increasing the output of coal, as in case of a decreased output the miners will be penalized by a reduction in their percentage share of surplus profits.

The Need For Canadianizing the Foreign Element

Question of Teacher Shortage Has An Important Bearing on the Problem.

Ottawa—During the conference on educational training the important question of teacher shortage and its causes in the Canadianizing of non-English speaking settlers was discussed.

The conference unanimously passed a resolution strongly expressing the opinion that the federal government should provide financial assistance to the provinces so that an adequate supply of specially selected teachers may be trained for this work (in non-English speaking settlements) and in rural districts, provided with permanent and attractive homes.

ditions had been improved but enrollment at teachers' training schools was lower than ever.

The conference unanimously passed a resolution strongly expressing the opinion that the federal government should provide financial assistance to the provinces so that an adequate supply of specially selected teachers may be trained for this work (in non-English speaking settlements) and in rural districts, provided with permanent and attractive homes.

To Use Corn For Fuel.

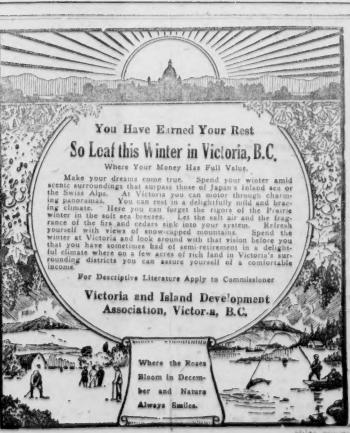

Omaha—Hundreds of thousands of bushels of corn may be burned as fuel by farmers in Northern Nebraska this winter, according to reports through here from agricultural sources. There is a dearth and a bountiful corn, unshelled brings 3-4¢ a cent of a pound or $1 a ton. The cheapest way to burn it is to haul them to port and charge passage. A wagon box thirty inches high and that cost $100 will hold a ton of unshelled corn and that amount lasts longer than a ton of coal.

Western Coalfields Will Play Big Part in Our National Development

Canada has sufficient bituminous coal within her borders to supply not only her present population but also that of the future," stated E. W. Gray, director of the Canadian Mining Institute, at the second annual western conference of the "Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy" held in Winnipeg recently.

Mr. Gray spoke on the part the coalfields of the west in Canada will play in the development of the country. He said that unfortunately a gap of 2,000 miles intervened between the eastern coalfields and the beginning of the Saskatchewan lignites along the international border.

This gap could be bridged by the greater development of the lignites required to achieve this end. First an extension of the great lakes waterways that would enable Nova Scotia coal to enter Lake Ontario by water carriage without breaking bulk, and second, the adoption by the railways of a comprehensive program for the annually increasing transport of coal from western coalfields, as a permanent feature of traffic.

The great details of the west were so large that the speaker, that it might well turn out that an export trade in coal would precede the development of the western coalfields for the purpose of providing fuel for locomotives. It had hitherto been unusual for the railway to haul coal for export shipment at Vancouver and at Prince Rupert, was not therefore justified. The opportunity, however, was open for any coalfield in North America, that could get its coal to tidewater within commercial limits, cost of rail-

Gas from Wheat Straw

Experiments Made at Kansas Promote Wonderful Development.

The Canadian prairies may provide fuel for the whole of Canada with a large amount left over for export, and the farmers of the prairie provinces may find a profitable market for a product of the soil which is now a waste product. A system of converting wheat straw into motor fuel proves as profitable as experiments now being conducted seem to promise.

The new motor fuel is being manufactured from straw for experimental purposes at Kansas City. A grant has just been received from J. C. Mohler, secretary of the Kansas Board of Agriculture, that good progress is being made.

Experiments are being made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture show, Mr. Mohler says, that a combustible gas can be obtained from the destructive distillation of wheat straw. This new product has been used for operating an automobile, for heating purposes, and for cooking and tests are in progress to determine its exact value and cost of production.

"If these experiments turn out satisfactorily," said Mr. Mohler, "it may be but a year or two before every farmer will have the straw from his threshing machine into a still from which he can draw all the fuel he will require to operate his farm machinery."

"Some geologists have predicted a critical shortage of gasoline in the next few years because of the increasing demand for motor vehicles and machinery. This new gas may solve the problem," said Mr. Mohler. "The new fuel is being transported in to go to the storage becomes a reality. Whether or not this new product will be commercially valuable depends, of course, on whether the cost of production can be made low enough. The value of the product at present gasoline price would be about $12 an acre."

Laugh and Make Good

Girl Capitalized Fault For Which She Was Discharged.

The next time I catch you laughing, you can hunt for another place. That is what the proprietor of a store in Iowa City, Iowa, told one of his clerks not long ago. When he heard her laugher he sent the lad home, and he proceeded to make good his threat. Whenever the clerk in question, preceded by the "fault" for which she had been fired, came to the door of the store, the girl would burst into a fit of uncontrollable laughter. There was no doubt that this pharisaic smile was the most mortifying plate of its kind in Ottawa. The appearance of the store indicates that the bank balance at the end of the year proves it.—From the St. Paul Despatch.

Gen. Ludendorff Is a Private.

Gen. Erich Ludendorff, Germany's noted military strategist, and for two years practically the commandant-in-chief of more than seven million officers and men composing Germany's army, is now a private in the Bavarian Army. He has recently been moved from Berlin to one of the suburbs of Munich, where he applied for admission as a private in the local company of the Home Guard and was accepted. Should disorders break out, the former head of the German army may have to shoulder a rifle and patrol the streets side by side with an ordinary householder.

Grants to Rural Schools

Saskatchewan Official Says Household Science is Receiving Attention.

After the first year's operations of the Saskatchewan Department of Education are well pleased with the results of the policy of making special grants to household science in rural schools.

During the '85 school year, takes advantage of the opportunity to earn these grants, it was decided by H. E. Ball, director of education, that a minimum grant, is $20 per annum per school, and the total amount paid out is in the neighborhood of $1,400.

The object of these grants is to increase the number of schools supplying hot lunches to children who are unable to get home during the noon hour, and to encourage the teaching of household science.

Mr. Ball said that it looked for a big increase in the number of schools taking advantage of the grant next year.

Politics in the Home

Contentions Over Party Matters Will Not Add to the Peace of Any Family.

A smart parliamentary remarks that is now in order to amend the marriage ceremony by inserting after the word "obey" a clause reading "serving the right of the other to determine my political convictions."

This new gas may solve the problem," said Mr. Mohler. "The new fuel is being transported in to go to the storage becomes a reality. Whether or not this new product will be commercially valuable depends, of course, on whether the cost of production can be made low enough. Call of the Dead.

A Norfolk vicar has been accustomed, for years, to take his choir boy, who had longed to display them at the fine parish church, but has been galled at the diffidence of the boys to haloween walls: always the first thought was the sea, and only the sea.

This year, however, a change was apparent. As they slithered from the train the boys begged earnestly to be shown the church. The vicar was delighted at this reward of his influence, but as the sea came near the church the real found fault was expressed. "The boys of the choir said to me,

"Father says they've got a staved shaft there!"—London Daily Chronicle.

Wealthy Indians Have Airplanes.

Many of the wealthiest members of the Osage Indian nation founded the famous oil and gas company in the state of Oklahoma. There is more wealth per capita among these people than any other nation in the world. It is derived from the oil and gas on their lands, which contains some of the richest industrial products in the world.

Romance in Ranch Building

New Method For Handling Sheep During Lambing Season.

It has been said, and rightly so, that Western Canada is a land of magnificence distances. It is also a land of astonishing underdevelopment—a land of big things done in a big way.

A notable example of this is found in the animal raising industry, in which building being accomplished by John T. Hegener, one of the largest sheep owners in Southern Alberta. On his immense ranches, the Canadian, King's Ranch and May Day, he raises about fifty miles southeast of Lethbridge, he is demonstrating what can be done in this country with the application of brains and brawn and skillfulness.

Mr. Hegener has fulfilled almost his field that sets to cover the proverbial "Thousand Hills." He clipped in the neighborhood of 135,000 pounds of wool. His lamb crop exceeded 7,000.

Mr. Hegener has a very ingenious method of handling his ewes during the lambing season, the most critical period in the shepherd's year. It has proved to be a remarkable safeguard against mortality among the lamb crop.

If you should visit his ranches during lambing time, you would be puzzled perhaps at seeing an ambulance dashingly move over the hills and fields. It is a civilian ambulance, that ambulance, and has saved Mr. Hegener hundreds of lambs this season.

The ambulance is mounted on a Ford truck.

As soon as the ewes drop their lambs, they are picked up, placed safely in the ambulance and away they go for the lambing fold.

They are placed in pens, where the ewe is fed on oats daily, while the lamb is fed on milk and hay, and the blankets. No chances are taken, "Lamb's are money" is the motto of John T. Hegener.

When the sun comes out and the tiny spring snow doing nicely after their first "rainment," are turned out for the pasture, the fresh, crisp grass of the pasture.

When the lambs are being born too quickly to be accommodated by the regular ambulance, horse drawn carts are used.

Mr. Hegener is convinced that this is the most efficient way to handle the sick and injured.

In a heavy storm last spring, when the snow was three feet deep, Mr. Hegener did not lose a single lamb. This record alone amply demonstrates the thorough and successful business method used.

His ranches are all fully modernized, and the buildings are excellent.

For his help as well as for himself and family, all the buildings are electrically lighted and supplied with fresh, cold water right from the tap, furnished by a storage cistern.

First Silo in Grand Prairie

To Conduct Feeding Experiment at Dominion Experimental Farm.

The first silo in Grand Prairie was dedicated on June 12th, at the Dominion Experimental Station, Bessborough, with nine and a half tons of oats, eleven and three quarters tons of barley and twenty-six tons of a mixture of sunflowers, the sunflowers and grain being mixed for the most part lead about.

This silo, recently completed, is a round silo, twelve feet in diameter by twenty-six feet high.

It is recommended that the following day, about a week prior to filling, has still about half their leaves unscathed by frost, and all who saw the filling operations in progress were delighted with the appearance, fragrant and full of life, the new silo.

It is intended to conduct a feeding experiment at the station this winter with beef cattle.

Aerial Mail Service.

A contract has been secured from the United States Government by the Canadian Pacific Railway for a post aerial mail route between Seattle and Victoria.

Terms of agreement provide for service to start the 15th of October and to continue until June 1st, 1924. Ten trips per month are to be made by air mail, 1,000 miles, connecting to be made with incoming and outgoing C.P.G.S. liners. A maximum of 600 pounds of letter mail is to be carried and remuneration is set at $200 for each trip. It is agreed that this will represent mail service between Seattle and the Orient by one of the stations.

"This afternoon" said Mr. Dayton, "I learned that there is another manately arrived here, who contemplates Mr. Dorkin harm, in some way. His name is Timberville, he is a scoundrel, we are not?" she cried, her throaty friends, "he finished."

"Do tell," chimed Mrs. Washburn.

"Yes?" scolded the settler, "and what happened?"

"Nothing, outside of him being personal nature, sir," she continued, the husband of a threat made against Dorkin, while allowing him to understand he intended to call his friend from the forest.

Timberville combed his goatie wig, crookedly. "The damned curse!" he exploded, and quite ignorantly, "I good man, I am a Pa, I am a Pa, I am a Pa, you mustn't swear," the woman sneaked at that with "The tarnation skeedle skeedle."

Mr. Dayton smiled faintly and Mrs. Washburn turned apologetically to Dutton, "I am sorry, I didn't mean to excite him. He's very fond of Dorkin, Miss."

Pa Washburn turned his troubled brows toward Mrs. Washburn. "You won't mind me, Miss," he said, his face a pale red confirmation. "I am very fond of you, I am very fond of you, that's why. I am very fond of you, I am very fond of you."

Edith snorted a smile. "I am not shocked," she said quietly. "In fact I was thinking, and did not catch what you said, Mrs. Washburn, whatever it was," she added, a catch in her voice, "I am sure that man deserves to be stoned. She crossed herself and left the table.

Ma Washburn sighed. "Well, it seems like nothing happens, now, Mr. Dayton. We don't often have trouble with the Indians, do we?"

"Not often," returned her husband. "But when it does come, it comes right along, like a hawk," he said, telling Dorkin, he suggested, turning to the banker.

"I think it would be as well," agreed that gentleman.

Ma Washburn, remarking that she had been up in the kitchen, beamed her excuse and followed in the wake of Edna. After her, a tender smile on his face.

When I first got that woman," he went on, "I worried 'most mad about her, and I thought I'd never get rid of her, when I think back on it, I know right well she had some work to do, and I am grateful to her for the pint when I only get up an' paw the air-like you see me set now—occasionally. What I'd ever do with her, I don't know."

"She certainly is a splendid woman," said Dutton, "and I am glad to see her, I don't know."

He lit his pipe and sat back, his brows screwed up in thought.

"No hope, Mr. Dalton, going soft," Savard said, and started to leave, said anxiously, "But, I'm afraid—I'm afraid—"

"This morning, Timberville, you reckon his plain along Dalton, sir?"

"I wish he let fall to this afternoon, I might say that he is without doubt, a scoundrel, but I am not quite so sure."

"Gosh all hellbuck!" exclaimed the settler, "Things don't look none too good for Dutton, I guess he'll have to go see the Preserve right soon, sir, you don't mind, you kin tell me about it."

"I shall be glad to be of service to you, Mr. Dutton."

Dayton rose from the table and with a short laugh, "I am glad to see you, Mr. Dalton, I am glad to see you, sir."

"I am glad to see you, sir," said Dutton, "but I am white and shaking all over."

Glacial SlideIs Prediction
Of Astronomer

May Wipe Out Australia and Part of Surface of Africa.

That Western Canada is not the only part of the world experiencing an unusually warm autumn, but that the phenomenon is general, and is based upon astronomical coincidences, is shown by a statement made publicly by an eminent American astronomer, John H. Chase, of Yonkers, New York. He seriously mentions that the earth may be facing one of those glacial experiences such as it underwent thousands of years ago, and he views the unexampled warm weather of the present autumn as a probable consequence of the rare alignment recently undergone by certain planets, which theory, if correct, he regards as the forerunner of a glacial slide, which apparently would sweep over the entire continent of Australia and part of Africa's surface and effect a marked change in the climate of this continent.

He says: "It is possible that we are now experiencing the first effect of the remarkable planetary alignment which occurred last winter. It is recalled that the planets Uranus, Mars and Saturn were all in direct line with the earth for the first time in many centuries. The combined pull of these, it was predicted by many astronomers, was certain to affect the earth's orbit—probably in the way of lengthening and flattening the ellipse."

"If that occurred we could expect longer summers in the northern hemisphere and shorter ones in the southern hemisphere, and more important than this is the likelihood that a glacier may form, covering all of Australia and part of Africa."

"Just such a flattening and stretching of the earth's orbit, thousands of years ago, caused a glacier to creep over North America as far south as South Lethbridge, twenty miles south of Yonkers."

"This may not be the explanation, but it is a possibility based on what is known to have happened at least once before in the world's history."

WESTFIELD

From our own Correspondent

The Ladies' Circle met at the home of Mrs. Madill last Thursday. There was quite a large turnout. The meeting was concluded with a "shower" for Miss Jessie Lane, who is to be a November bride, and lovely presents were "showered" on her.

The "showering" was performed by the ladies forming in line and marching into the room to music played by Mr. J. R. Shearer. Mrs. Madill was in the lead carrying a pink parasol filled with presents. Mrs. Madill stopped in front of Miss Lane and presented the parasol to her. Miss Lane then opened the parasol and "showered" the presents over herself.

Another happy occasion occurred on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. R. Elford, when the Prairie Belles of the Canadian Girls in Training, together with their leaders, Mrs. J. R. Shearer, were invited to another "shower" for Miss Lane. All was in readiness but the bride-to-be did not come, so they decided to pick another bride and have a mock shower, but at the last moment the real bride-to-be arrived.

As soon as all were seated, two little boys, David Elford and Milton Shearer, appeared dressed in white and hatched to a cart all draped in pink. Isobel Shearer, dressed as a fairy, was driving them with pink ribbons. The procession came to a stop in front of Miss Lane and the presents were presented to her.

Both showers were a complete surprise to her.

A Halloween party was held at Westfield School on Friday night, Oct. 29th. About eighteen present were masked, but as there was a very small crowd nearly everyone was soon known. After the masks were taken off, games were played and afterwards lunch was served.

There were many more invited, but owing to the recent snowstorm the roads were very bad and some could not come.

Grassy Lake

The store has presented Mr. and Mrs. Gibson with a fine baby. Both mother and child are doing well.

Constable Frewin, from Taber, passed through town Tuesday last on his way to Ronelton on business.

Constable Bradner was a business visitor to Grassy Lake last Wednesday investigating the recent fire.

Mrs. Campbell was a business visitor to town on Monday last.

The stock has presented Mr. and Mrs. Gibson with a fine baby. Both mother and child are doing well.

P. Clauglin, who has been ill in Taber hospital with typhoid fever, was reported last Wednesday to be improving.

Burdett News

Mr. and Mrs. C. McKinnon, Mr. and Mrs. Arbuthnott and the latter's sister, Mrs. Alexander of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kelly were visitors at the home of Mr. Jas. Neil on Sunday.

Mrs. Arbuthnott and sister Mrs. Alexander of Vancouver, went to Lethbridge this week visiting at the home of Mrs. Starnes and her brothers Duncan and Donald Duff of the Duff addition.

These Ladies have not met since their girlhood days in Scotland.

Syrups of Tar and Cod Liver Oil Compound is one of the best cures for a cough or cold. E.M. Johnston has the window full of it.

The new bank building at Burdett is rapidly nearing completion. The timsmen are at work on the furnace, and the painters have nearly finished. With the arrival of the new safe and vault doors it won't be long before the business is transferred to the new site.

The L. D. S. Church holds services at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. every Sunday. Everybody Welcome, lots of good music and hearty singing.

Come and join us next Sunday and take a fresh hold on life and happiness.

The Burdett Mercantile Co., wish there was an election every day, as their store was crowded with buyers all day. Many were heard to say this place was able to give as good a deal as is now to be obtained from the mail order houses, and that there is no reason to send away one's money to get good results.

W.O. Lyons wishes to announce that his Boot and Shoe Repairing Store is now open all the time.

Bring or send your Boots or Shoes to be repaired ready for Winter.

The Ladies' Aid Society held a sale of work this week. We don't think it was as well patronized as it should have been. These ladies give their time in working and certainly produce good and useful articles and the public reap the benefit when sickness or misfortune overtake them.

See the "Photographic Art Calendars" E.M. Johnston has on hand. If you are looking for a reasonably priced souvenir you can insert one of your own snap shots, giving a personal touch about it.

At last the school seems to be settled with its teaching staff. Both parents and pupils are loud in their praise of those who now hold positions there. The living difficulty seems to be overcome as now a bachelor establishment is in full swing. Judging by the noise which comes from this place the occupants are extremely happy. It is the hope of all that the whole staff will remain at least for the full year. If this is done a better result will be obtained in the examinations next summer.

The approach of the closing of the Union Bank at Grassy Lake is a case of an ill wind blowing some good—Burdett is reaping the good by reason of many residents of that district coming here where banking facilities can be obtained.
